15 - "CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO" CROSSING GREAT SALT LAKE ON S. P. LINES IN UTAH

Fifteen miles west of Ogden, Utah, you actually "go to sea by rail" over the famous cut-off across Great Salt Lake. Affording an unique view of this great inland sea.

This cut-off extends west 102.9 miles across the northern arms of Great Salt Lake to Lucin. It was opened March 8, 1904, having cost $4,500,000 and two years of effort.

Seventy-two miles of the way the rails are laid on land and for thirty miles on rock fills and heavy trestle work.

The Great Salt Lake is more salty than any other body of water except the Dead Sea of Palestine.

YOSEMITE FALLS

Yosemite Falls is the greatest cataract of the Sierras. This vast volume of water, about 35 feet wide at the top, plunges 2600 feet—a half mile. The first fall is 1600 feet, followed by a series of cascades 600 feet downward, with a final drop of 400 feet. The roar of the water is heard over the Valley.

Dear Mike,
Good old Yosemite Falls is just a leaky faucet now. The time to see the Falls of Yosemite is in May and June, when you can hear them really roar and churn up the mist and foam.

The ever changing panorama of rich and accurately colored landscape, with all the harmonizing and complimentary colors from the master palette of the Great Creator, it is no exaggeration to say that there is more variation in color and formation in this area than any other place of its size in the world. Hunting, fishing, pack trips, hiking and picnicking await you here, properly flavored with true western hospitality.
